

AUTHORS

Linda Baines, Head of Commercial Development, Science and Technology Facilities Council (STFC), UK, develops the commercial and contracting arrangements that underpin strategic external relationships including research collaborations, joint ventures, exploitation of IP (through CLIK, STFC's technology transfer company) with a wide range of outside organisations in the industry, government and academia in the UK and overseas. Linda is the Treasurer of AURIL (<http://www.auril.org.uk>) and chairs AURIL's CPD Steering Group which oversees the development of the AURIL Continuing Professional Development framework. She is a Director of the Institute of Knowledge Transfer, IKT (<http://www.ikt.org.uk>), and Head of its Membership Services. Linda is a member of the Sounding Board that is advising the EU Commission on the development of a new legal vehicle for European Research Infrastructures. As a qualified procurement professional with extensive experience of complex strategic projects, Linda is a member of the Chartered Institute of Purchasing and Supply (MCIPS) and a qualified knowledge transfer professional (M.IKT). She can be contacted at L.Baines@rl.ac.uk.

Thomas D. (Tom) Barton is a Professor of Law at California Western School of Law in San Diego, California. He also coordinates the National Center for Preventive Law (www.preventivelawyer.org). He writes and speaks on topics of Preventive/Proactive law, legal theory, the rule of law, and legal problem solving. He has taught courses in law schools concerning Contracts, Civil Procedure, Problem Solving and Prevention, Professional Responsibility, Legal Theory, and Law & Economics. A Visitor for many years at the University of California, San Diego, he created a variety of courses in the Sociology of Law. He can be contacted at tdb@cwsl.edu.

Tim Cummins is Executive Director of the International Association for Contract and Commercial Management, IACCM (www.iaccm.com). He has more than 25 years experience in commercial contracting, gained with corporations that included NatWest, British Leyland, BAe and IBM Corporation. Tim has led negotiations up to $1.5bn in value and has lived or worked in over 40 countries. While working in the Chairman's office at IBM Corporate Headquarters, he led studies on the business impacts of globalization and then successfully managed projects to reengineer IBM's global contracting processes. Tim was a member of the UK's Commercial Lead Body and has had papers commissioned by both the US Department of Labor and the UK Department of Education. He has provided consulting and research services to many large corporations in the areas of commercial contracting, skills assessment and certification techniques. He can be contacted at tcummins@iaccm.com.

Edward A. (Ed) Dauer is Dean Emeritus of the Sturm College of Law at the University of Denver, in Denver, Colorado. He earned his A.B. degree from Brown University; an LL.B. from Yale; and an M.P.H. in Health Policy and Management from Harvard. Prior to becoming Dean and Professor of Law at Denver he taught for over a decade at the Yale Law School, and has since held appointments as Visiting Scholar and Visiting Lecturer at the Harvard School of Public Health. He is presently Visiting Professor at California Western School of Law in San Diego, California, where he teaches Health Law and Policy in a joint program with the University of California at San Diego School of Medicine. In 1982, with his colleague Louis Brown, Dauer founded the National Center for Preventive Law and served as its first President. The National Center became a focus for professional and academic development in legal risk management, corporate compliance, and transaction planning. It continues today at California Western School of Law. Dean Dauer is admitted to the practice of law in Colorado, Connecticut, and the federal courts including the United States Supreme Court. He is an active mediator and consultant. Most recently he founded Common Good Colorado, a public interest organization dedicated to law reform with an emphasis on risk and injury reduction in healthcare. He can be contacted at edauer@law.du.edu.

James P. (Jim) Groton, LL.B, FCIArb, FCCA (Bachelor of Laws, Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators, Fellow of the College of Commercial Arbitrators), is an arbitrator of international construction disputes and a teacher and consultant on dispute prevention, control and resolution principles, techniques and systems to businesses and governmental bodies. Jim is a pioneer in developing techniques for the prevention, control, management and earliest possible resolution of disputes. He was elected to the National Academy of Construction because of his accomplishments in preventing construction disputes, and has long been an advocate of adapting construction industry dispute prevention and control principles and techniques to other industries and business relationships. Jim is active in the work of the Dispute Resolution Board Foundation and the American Arbitration Association's International Centre for Dispute Resolution, and dispute prevention work for the International Institute for Conflict Prevention and Resolution. He is a member of the ProActive ThinkTank. He is a retired partner of Sutherland, Asbill & Brennan LLP, a law firm with offices in Atlanta, Georgia and many other U.S. cities. He can be contacted at jim.groton@sablaw.com.

Helena Haapio, LL.M., MQ (Master of Laws, Master of Quality), the Editor of this book, works as International Contract Counsel for Lexpert Ltd (www.lexpert.com) based in Helsinki, Finland. She supports corporate clients in succeeding in cross-border contractual (ad)ventures, helping them use contracts to get better business results and stay out of legal trouble. Before founding Lexpert Ltd Helena served for several years as in-house Legal Counsel for Wäertsilä Group companies in Finland, Norway, Sweden and the United States. Her responsibilities included drafting and negotiating contracts for complex international projects, acquisitions, joint ventures, distributorships, sales and licensing transactions. She also arranged in-house training in related fields and was nominated Export Educator of the Year by The Finnish Institute for International Trade FINTRA. Helena is a member of the Advisory Council of the International Association for Contract and Commercial Management, IACCM (www.iaccm.com) and the Founder and Coordinator of IACCM Finland. She is actively involved in the development of the Nordic School of Proactive Law (<http://www.proactivelaw.org>) and the ProActive ThinkTank (<http://www.proactivethinktank.com>) and has been appointed as Expert to the European Economic and Social Committee (EESC) in order to assist it in drawing up its Opinion on The Proactive Law Approach: a step forward into Better Regulation at EU level. She also acts as arbitrator. She can be contacted at Helena.Haapio@lexpert.com.

Marc Lampe is Professor of Business Law and Social Responsibility at the University of San Diego (USD) School of Business Administration where he has taught since 1989. He earned a B.A. in Political Science from the University of Wisconsin, an M.B.A. at San Francisco State University, and a J.D. from the University of San Francisco School of Law. He was admitted to the California State Bar in 1978. Marc's professional experience combines law, public-interest advocacy and business consulting. He was trained in arbitration and has been a mediator. At USD, Marc is responsible for a major catalog revision of the traditional business law course to a business practitioner oriented approach emphasizing prevention of legal problems and conflict resolution. Marc has been a leading proponent for improving business law and ethics education. In 2003 he received a "University Professorship" award for "outstanding career contributions" to USD. Marc has presented papers and published articles on various ethical and legal topics pertaining to business and business education. His work has appeared in the Journal of Business Ethics, Journal of Legal Studies Education, the International Business Review, and other publications. His current areas of interest include business law and ethics education and the application of science to ethics. He can be contacted at mlampe@sandiego.edu.

Saara Lampelo, Dr., Adjunct Professor, Vice Rector, Turku University of Applied Sciences, Finland, brings over 25 years of Life Science operations in academy and business. Prior this position, Dr. Lampelo was Director, Sitra, CEO of HBSP, and CEO of Medipolis Oy Ltd, a life science incubator and Medipolis GMP Oy, a contract manufacture company in Northern Finland. Dr. Lampelo has served as a board member on several International High Tech companies and academic institutions. In these fields she has worked world wide for World Bank, governmental organisations, etc. Dr. Lampelo's combination of experience in academic and business world together with her expertise in management, technology transfer, marketing, consulting, education, business development and international business management provide her with a multidimensional perspective in linking businesses and science to create and manage new, technology and knowledge based, internationally networking services and businesses. She can be contacted at Saara.Lampelo@turkuamk.fi.

Eric van de Luytgaarden is Professor for Innovation of the Legal Profession, Utrecht University of Applied Sciences (<http://www.hu.nl>), Faculty of Legal Studies and Social Work, Social Innovation Research Centre. Eric is also business consultant at NPI Institute for Organisation Development (<http://www.npi-zeist.nl>). He is vice-president of the Utrecht Research Centre for Social Innovation. He worked for 10 years as a judge in the district courts of Leeuwarden and Amsterdam. For 14 years he was an Assistant, then an Associate Professor of Jurisprudence and Philosophy of Law at Utrecht University and a visiting Professor for Human Rights and Constitutionalism at Charles University in Prague, Warsaw, Torun and Sofia. As a business consultant he has managed major change projects in public government. He acts as an advisor of academic and professional institutions such as Universities, the Dutch Bar Association and private legal entrepreneurs. He has various executive functions in the Netherlands mostly in the non-profit sector. He has published over 125 articles and 9 books mostly on humanity, social innovation and law. He can be contacted at eric.vandeluytgaarden@hu.nl.

Cecilia Magnusson Sjöberg LL.D., Professor of Law and Informatics is Director of The Swedish Law & Informatics Research Institute, Faculty of Law, Stockholm University, Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences Research Fellow (www.juridicum.su.se/iri/cema) and head of the Swedish Trust for Legal Information (www.rattsinfo.se). Her 25 years of experience include the substantive component of law and information technology (IT) as well as digital methods of legal information retrieval, decision-making and document management, for example, issues of legal security connected with electronic signatures. She is actively involved in several networks, for instance, Nordic School of Proactive Law (www.proactivelaw.org) and Legal Information Standards Action Network – LISA (www.lisan.org). She is engaged in education for both students, lawyers and IT professionals, see e.g. www.juridicum.su.se/iri/masterIT/. She can be contacted at cecilia.magnussonsjoberg@juridicum.su.se.

Tobias Mahler holds a German law degree and a LL.M. degree in the field of computers and law. He works as a Research Fellow at the Norwegian Research Center for Computers and Law (NRCCL) since 2004, coordinating the NRCCL's participation in several EU-funded projects, in particular TrustCoM and Legal-IST. His research interests include intellectual property law, data protection law and contractual risk management. His current PhD research, supervised by Professor Jon Bing, is focused on legal risk management. He also holds a part-time position as an in-house lawyer in the automotive industry. He can be contacted at tobias.mahler@jus.uio.no.

Soile Pohjonen, Doctor of Laws, Trained on the Bench, Adjunct Professor (Docent) in Comparative Law and Jurisprudence, University of Helsinki (Finland), Faculty of Law, is Research coordinator in the Centre of Excellence "Foundations of European Law and Polity". She has edited the first book specifically representing the Proactive Approach in Law: "Ennakoiva sopiminen" (Proactive Contracting, 2002) as well as "Ex ante – ennakoiva oikeus" (Ex ante – Proactive Law, 2005). She has also contributed to other anthologies of the proactive network. Besides Proactive Law and Proactive Contracting she has written about family law, contract law, mediation, feminist jurisprudence, comparative law, criminal law and international law. She has introduced interaction skills for lawyers into University of Helsinki, Faculty of Law courses. She has worked as a researcher and teacher at her Faculty, as a judge, practicing lawyer, prosecutor and organization secretary and has been a member of many committees. She can be contacted at soile.pohjonen@helsinki.fi.

Katri Rekola is the Managing Director of Rekola Design Oy (www.tuotekehitys.info), a Finnish management consulting company specializing in services: innovations, development, productification, and management. Her main area of expertise is the service field, ranging from B2B services such as industrial services provided by large global companies and KIBS (knowledge intensive business services) to B2C services. Before starting the company in 1997, Katri worked in several IT companies as a software expert. She has a Master's degree in engineering and a Ph.D. in economics and has studied design at Canada College in California. Besides her dissertation "Product-centric Service Development – Tools and Methods" (2006), Katri is the author of three books on services: "Palvelukeskeisten tuotteiden kehittäminen teollisuusyrityksissä" (Developing Product-Centric Services in Industrial Companies) Teknologiainfo Teknova, 2003; "Opas teollisuusyrityksille palvelujen testaukseen" (Guide for Testing Services) Teknologiainfo Teknova, 2005; "Palvelutapa teollisuuden kilpailukeinona" (Service Design: A Competitive Edge) Teknologiainfo Teknova, 2007. She is also a member of the ProActive ThinkTank. Katri can be contacted at Katri.Rekola@kolumbus.fi.

Kerttuli Visuri, M. Sc., works as an analyst in the Federation of Espoo Parishes, Finland, being responsible for strategic planning and research. Previously, Mrs Visuri has worked in industry and finance, also as a researcher and as an entrepreneur. Her research interests include project and process management, especially knowledge management in contracting processes and project and process oriented work. Mrs. Visuri has been interested in proactive contracting since 2002 after joining the proactive contracting interest group which combines practical and theoretical aspects of successful proactive contracting. She can be contacted at kerttuli.visuri@kolumbus.fi.